

Activities of Japanese Officers Here Stir Military Suspicion

WASHINGTON — Officials are keeping very quiet about it, but Army and Navy Intelligence report an unusually large number of Japanese military and naval officers in the United States acting under suspicious circumstances.

Several of them have been arrested, the latest being Major Satohata Takahashi, taken in on a deportation warrant by the Labor Department in Detroit last week. Takahashi was organizing a society for the promotion of colored races—negroes, East Indians, Japanese—in the United States. He had no visible means of support and had entered the country illegally.

Other cases include that of two junior Japanese naval officers who were studying at Harvard, and during their vacation, took a motor trip to California. Near San Diego they had a smash-up, one was killed, the other seriously injured. In their pockets were found sketches of San Diego harbor.

Another interesting case was that of a Japanese naval officer who spent several days riding back and forth in buses between Los Angeles and the naval base at San Pedro. What he was interested in was talking to American enlisted men who also rode on the buses.

His mission proved fruitless, for most of them were suspicious and wouldn't talk. The Navy kept close track of his movements, and had a line on most of his conversations. His chief questions were regarding the treatment of enlisted men in the Navy.

He was interested in morale.

White House Rum

Now that bootlegging in the National Capital is supposed to be a thing of the past, it might be recalled that bootlegging once took place in the White House itself. It was during the Rutherford B. Hayes Administration.

Mrs. Hayes was a determined dry. She insisted that no wine or liquor be served at the White House table. But Secretary of State Evans was a determined wet. Working behind Mrs. Hayes' back, he usually arranged with the chef to spike the punch. The chef also served oranges containing a concoction of St. Croix rum. Secretary Evans' chief difficulty, according to his friends, was that of making sure that none of the spiked oranges was served to Mrs. Hayes.

Unavailing

George Peek's recent flare-up with the liberals of the AAA caused a deep perturbation in the breast of his good friend, and one-time ally, Barney Baruch.

When the first press stories broke telling of the rift, Barney began burning up the wires with messages to the President urging that Peek's views be upheld.

As the under-cover struggle progressed to the climax, Barney's telegrams increased in number and force. The President was much amused. Peek, and not the liberals, lost out.

Red Heads

It was a case of one red head spurring another that brought to James M. Doran, former Commissioner of Industrial Alcohol, the position of Director of the Distilled Liquor Institute. To get to the top was a hot, under-cover scramble. Scramblers were "Tanefoot" Bob Lucas, former executive director of the Republican National Committee, John Philip Hill, former vice representative from Maryland, and Bob Jackson, secretary to the Democratic National Committee.

Against such an array, Doran didn't seem to have much chance but he had an ace trump up his Circleville was returning to normalcy today and for a long while the "Great Slide of Dec. 13, 1932" will be remembered. Ice which covered highways, sidewalks and even lawns respected no one; it was either with your step or fall and many did the latter although they also watched their steps.

Rain which fell onto a cold pavement started to freeze shortly

Ice covering Ohio's highways and streets will give way tomorrow to slush, according to official forecasts of government weather observers.

Rain or snow tonight and unsettled weather with rain and higher temperatures is the prediction. Temperatures throughout the state today ranged between 25 and 30, and will probably climb to 40 tomorrow, observers say.

after noon Wednesday and as a result the city was a glare of ice until this afternoon when it began to thaw. The ice was difficult to see which made automobile travel and walking all the more dangerous.

NO ONE BADLY HURT
Despite the danger which accompanied the freeze, no fatal or serious accidents were reported. Scores of automobiles skidded off roads in every direction and many were slightly damaged but no one was seriously hurt. The service department, under A. J. Lyle, spread sand at intersections during the afternoon to help prevent accidents, thus there were no crashes of consequence in the city. The N. Court-st hill proved an impene-trable barrier for automobiles traveling north and a rink for cars going south until sand was poured upon it. For a while the hill resembled a Saturday night traffic jam on W. Main-st.

The Walters hill, near South Bloomfield, also was a difficult spot to negotiate.

Numerous persons are known to have struck the pavement during the 24 hours of ice but Harry B.

2 COMMUNISTS TO DIE BY AXE

Prosecutor Makes Recommendations in Famed Reichstag Fire Trials.

LEIPZIG, Dec. 14.—Death by the executioner's axe was demanded by the public prosecutor today for Marinus Van der Lubbe, Dutch brickmason, and Ernst Torgler, Communist leader, chief defendants in the Reichstag fire trial.

The prosecutor, Dr. Karl August Werner, asked for the acquittal of Georgi Dimitroff, Glagol Popoff and Vassil Tanef, three Bulgarian communists accused of complicity in the blaze.

Dr. Werner's demand that Van Der Lubbe and Torgler pay the extreme penalty was voiced at the conclusion of his long summation, during which he repeatedly charged it had been proved that the blaze was intimately associated with VanDer Lubbe in the fire plot.

Dr. Torgler was for many years Communist floor leader in the Reichstag. He has stoutly protested his innocence of any complicity (Continued on Page Three)

8 CHILDREN BUS VICTIMS

17 Others Reported Critically Injured at Crescent, Fla., Hit By Train.

CRESCENT CITY, Fla., Dec. 14.—Eight school children were reported killed and 17 others critically injured today in a crash between a heavily loaded school bus and a northbound Atlantic coast line train five miles from here.

The train plowed into the crowded bus on a "blind" crossing in a fog-weathered countryside. The vehicle was struck amidships, dragged down the track and the wreckage, containing the mangled forms of the victims, tossed aside before the train could be brought to a halt.

Bodies of the child victims were scattered along the right of way. Isolation of the community made a definite checkup of casualties difficult.

Physicians and all available ambulances were summoned from Palatka, 21 miles away.

Seven of the children met instant death. Another died of injuries a few minutes later. Other deaths, physicians said, were feared.

Several of those injured were badly mangled. The injured were rushed to the two hospitals in Palatka.

16 FEARED DEAD IN SEA TRAGEDY

LONDON, Dec. 14.—Bodies and wreckage washed ashore today revealed that sixteen lives were lost in a terrific gale that swept the English channel yesterday.

The steamer Culmore, carrying a crew of nine, sank beneath 50-foot waves within the view of crowds ashore off Aldeburgh, Suffolk. Seven were lost when the Dyck lightship sank seven miles off Dunkirk.

Safety Vault Loot $75,000

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—Police conducting a checkup of the looted safety deposit vaults in the United Trust and savings bank today estimated that the gang of seven bandits who raided the institution obtained between $75,000 and $100,000 in cash and negotiable securities.

During the well planned raid in which the bandits held possession of the bank for two hours 96 safety deposit boxes were stripped of the contents. Working with calm precision while a portable short wave radio set brought in the routine police calls, the robbers systematically struck the boxes open with cold chisels and hammers.

The bandits carried the small radio set as a precaution to warn them should an alarm be spread.

M'NEAL TAKEN TO STATE PEN

Begins One to 20 Years For Statutory Offense; Costs Near $300.

Newell McNeal, Williamsport, became an inmate of the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus, Thursday, being taken there by Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff. Mr. McNeal's appeal from conviction on a statutory offense was denied by the district court of appeals this week.

McNeal will serve from one to 20 years in "the big house" with the board of paroles and pardons having jurisdiction after a year's time. In his behavior has been good Mr. McNeal will be eligible for a parole hearing after he has been in the prison for nine months. He cannot be released in less than a year, however. It is possible that since another indictment is held against him in the local court he will remain there longer than a year. He was indicted for alleged tampering with a juror in his first trial.

Besides the time he must serve, Mr. McNeal must also pay the costs of prosecution amounting to approximately $300. Witnesses, 31 of them, cost $93.70.

Mr. McNeal was jailed Tuesday noon.

Gas Fumes Kill Mother, Children

Husband-Father On Return Home Finds Girls Clapsed In Mother's Arms.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Ralph Campbell returned to his Brooklyn home early today and smelled gas.

He traced it to the kitchen. There, her two small daughters clapsed to her breast, his wife, Irene, 31, lay dead.

Mrs. Campbell had turned on all the burners of a gas range, extinguished the lights in the house and hugged the children to her while the three succumbed to the gas fumes.

Campbell, almost prostrated, told police his wife had suffered a nervous breakdown recently and gone to visit relatives for a while. She returned home about a week ago, he said, and seemed to have recovered her health.

Police, summoned by the distraught father, worked for an hour with promoters to revive Mrs. Campbell and the children, Rosemary, 6, and Gertrude, 2, who were clad in their nightclothes but their efforts were futile.

DAVE DUNLAP HOST TO 62 OF FRIENDS

Good fellowship in a superlative degree was the order of the evening at the Elk's club, Wednesday evening, when David Dunlap, W. Franklin-st, was host to 62 of his friends. Turkey and all its trimmings prepared by the Elks' masters of the culinary art provided the repast of the evening.

Several weeks ago, "Dave", a trustee and life member of B. P. O. Elks No. 77, told one of the "gang" that he wanted to do something in which he could enjoy himself and at the same time treat some of the boys. The possibility of a turkey dinner arose, so last night's party was the result of the suggestion.

The banquet table was laden with excellent food, but that alone was not the feature of the evening. A series of impromptu talks, remarks, stories, "digs" and numerous plaudits to the host

The burglars drilled through 16 inches of brick and mortar of a rear wall in the building to gain access to the office.

OHIO CONGRESSMEN TO VISIT LOUISVILLE IN PROBE, CLAIM

Rice Invites Ohio Delegation To Refute Charges of C. Truax.

APPRAISERS ATTACKED
First Hand Probe Looms During Next Week.

Accusations of Ohio congressmen, led by C. C. Truax of Bucyrus, may come to a head next week since a report that the Ohio congressional delegation may invade Louisville, Ky., home of the Federal Home Loan bank. Failures and deficiencies of the farm mortgage financing program in Ohio have been charged by the congressmen.

The Ohioans, including Congressman Mel G. Underwood, are considering a first hand investigation, it is claimed. The probe is a result of accusations of political activity by supervising appraisers and dissatisfaction over the work of Robert L. Imnell, of Yellow-bud, vice president of the Louisville bank in charge of commissioner's loans.

RICE IN WILLING
Ernest Rice, president of the bank, has invited the Ohio delegation to consult with him next Tuesday and go into detailed discussion of the charges and complaints, which have been made publicly.

Rice seeks, it is reported, to discuss and refute conspiracy charges filed with President Roosevelt last week by Congressman Truax, who claims Republicans control the bank's fund appraisal organization and that a sinister plot is being formed to ruin the present administration in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee, now served by the Louisville bank. Thomas T. Neely, reviewing appraiser, was named leader of the plot in Truax' statement.

He collapsed Monday night after paralysis had crippled his left side. Before his death, Smith revealed he had been struck by a pick.

SENATE CASTS 15-11 TALLY AGAINST PLAN

Liquor by Package in Drug Stores Advocated by Upper House

WHITE, AIDES LOSE

"Politics" Cry Heard From Both Sides

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14.—Laying the state's monopoly plan for control of liquor intact, the Senate committee of the House of Representatives today voted 15-11 against the administration, without recommendation. The vote was 15-11. An amendment making the House bill practically the same as the one supported by the Senate was defeated in the committee by a 10-6 vote.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14.—(UPI)—Administration leaders in the Ohio legislature today looked to the House of Representatives to save their state monopoly plan for liquor control.

State monopoly was defeated in the Senate when, on Dec. 13, it was voted 15-11.

PFEIFFER VOICES

Robert E. Pfeiffer, against a state monopoly liquor control bill. Pfeiffer did not vote in the Ohio Senate, where he is a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee. He is a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee. He is a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

a committee, of the whole, on the liquor control bill, passed by the house voted 15 to 11, to strike it out of the House bill.

As the bill now stands, it would distribute of liquor to the hands of drug stores, but monopoly leaders were pressing for further amendments revising set-up and limiting the number of retail stores to be licensed to sell package liquor.

"POLITICS" IS KEY
Rejection of the monopoly feature by the Senate committee of the whole followed much bitter debate during which monopoly opponents accused the White administration of injecting politics into the liquor bill.

Administration spokesmen were equally emphatic in laying blame for the injection of politics on the doorstep of the anti-monopolists. The opposing forces were in agreement only on the point that someone was "playing politics."

It was Akron's Sen. Frank E. Whittemore (R) who initiated the movement that led to monopoly's downfall in the Senate. Another Akron solon, Carl B. Sheppard (R) introduced the amendment that actually killed monopoly's chance in the upper house.

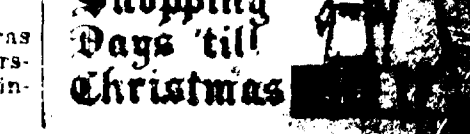

As soon as Prof. Clarence Laylin, one of the administration bill drafters, concluded his detailed explanation of the Mosier bill, Whittemore began the fireworks by first submitting an amendment providing that drug stores, instead of state liquor stores, be named distributors of package liquor.

Whittemore explained later that his amendment was not aimed primarily at destroying the monopoly, but at striking a middle (Continued on Page Three)

TEACHERS FACE WARMEST FRIDAY NIGHT

Quintet Looks Promising in School Cage Team. That the Quintet must be tough, so the Tigers who in the Chillicothe court Friday apparently have their work cut out for them.

Coach Pete Herberholz has been training his boys in strenuous sessions this week in the hope of developing a stronger offensive and a more hopeful of being returned the court.

A preliminary game between the Quintet and the two schools will begin at 6:45 p. m.

Following is the story concerning the Chillicothe team, written by Marty Chandler in the Scioto.

Earl Young, who starts every coaching season with the expectation of losing three-fourths of the contests, and then strives to surprise himself, is shy when it comes to talking about the present crop of candidates he's grooming for Chillicothe's night court campaign.

But in his weak moments he will admit that the 1933-34 Red Devils do appear to have the stuff that sends basketball quintets out in front and that the boys in practice at least, are improving and showing the most spirited determination to go places that he's noted in a local five for many a moon.

All of which, coming from the usually gloomy mentor, indicates that he expects to have something to show for the education of local youth when he trots his "gymnastics" out onto the floor of the high school Friday night, for the first time since the season.

The game, incidentally, will start at 8 o'clock, be refereed by Coach J. H. Crocker of Ohio Wesleyan and be preceded by a preliminary game between Chillicothe and Circleville, starting at 6:45.

Beaughers have been hauled in from the gridiron and given a fresh coat of paint for the indoor.

Continued to concentrate on what is expected to be his starting five. Graves, Conley, and Blankenship and Dearth, in the second team.

The victory was a surprise in the district, which was expected to be a close one.

2 MAJOR LEAGUES IN HUDDLE TODAY

Uniform Ball, Broadcasting, Deals Pending To Be Discussed In Session.

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—Having punched itself out in the first round on Tuesday when the venerable Mr. Mack ups to everybody with a $275,000 haymaker that wafted Grove, Walberg and Bishop to the Red Sox; Mickey Cochran to Detroit and George Earnshaw to the White Sox, the annual major league convention came out of its corner, leg weary and tongue tied today. So it did the natural thing. It went into a clinic.

Another name for the latter is the joint meeting of the two leagues. Here they will consider the uniform ball, radio broadcasting and other unimportant matters, gravely, ponderously and possibly to no purpose. That's why its called a joint meeting. Only a joint would stand for that sort of thing.

Of course, there remained a few unimportant details, some of which, in fact, probably never was started. Full many a trade has started in the newspapers—and finished there. This is not necessarily true of the surmised Earl Averill-Oscar Melillo deal. That is, it may not have started in the newspapers. But it probably will finish there. The Indians, having moved back to their old park for next season, naturally figure Averill to start hitting them all the way off the landscape again.

The clinic is scheduled to be held Saturday afternoon, after which the coaches and officials will be guests of the university at a game between the Buckeye quintet and a team from Western Ontario.

According to the arrangements that have been planned for the meeting, the subject of basketball will be placed under the microscope from every angle. The discussions will be conducted by Harold G. Olsen, Buckeye basketball mentor. One of the highlights of the clinic will be a talk on basketball as it is played in Canada by J. H. Crocker, director of athletics at Western Ontario.

Practical demonstrations of basketball technique will be given by members of the Ohio State freshman squad, who will be put through the paces of displaying the various systems of team play used by Big Ten teams.

Ground between monopoly on the one hand and wide open licensing of retail liquor stores on the other. But Whittemore's colleague, from Akron, Senator Sheppard, whose attempt to defeat the monopoly while the bill was being considered by the Senate judiciary committee failed by a 4-to-2 vote, sensed that the moment was at hand to put his anti-monopoly idea across, and he suggested amending the Whittemore amendment to wipe out state monopoly "so the druggists could make a profit."

STRIKE OUT STORES

To simplify the question before the committee of the whole, the two Akron senators agreed to withdraw both amendments. They submitted in place of them an amendment by Sheppard to strike out that part of the bill alluding to state liquor stores. A motion by Sen. J. F. Smolka (D) Cleveland, to table Sheppard's amendment failed by a vote of 15 to 10. Before a vote finally was taken on the Sheppard amendment, passing it, 15 to 11, the spectators who packed the Senate galleries were treated to the most acrimonious debate of the liquor control sessions thus far.

Sheppard accused Gov. George White of bringing politics into the liquor control picture "when he tried to make the people of Ohio believe the legislators were moving ing at the back and call of lobbyists for the liquor interests, which everyone knows is not the truth." He alluded to the comment of White, after the judiciary committee last week at first informally voted against monopoly, to the effect that "it is evident that the lobbyists have done their work very effectively."

The Akron Senator vigorously arraigned the White administration and referred, in the course of his remarks, to C. Nelson Sparks, Republican mayor of Akron, as the "next governor—with no affront intended to Lieut. Gov. Sawyer" (president of the Senate) who has been mentioned as a Democratic candidate for governor.

Sen. W. P. Haynes (D) West Lafayette, replied to Sheppard, expressing "regret that politics has been injected into consideration of the bill and regret that the Senator has selected this time for an attack on the state administration."

"Let's get politics out of our discussion of the liquor bill," Senator Haynes pleaded.

LOBBYING CITED

Referring to White's criticism of two members of the state beer commission for their alleged lobbying in favor of a plan to turn over control of all liquor to the present beer commission, Senator Sheppard declared:

"I ask the governor: 'Why is it wrong for members of the beer commission to come in and present their views and why is it right for a member of the state tax commission, who has been on this floor tonight, to come in and lobby for it?'"

With Sheppard's amendment finally carried, Whittemore introduced an amendment giving drug stores the privilege of selling liquor in sealed packages for off-premises consumption and providing that a registered pharmacist

In Royal "Dirty Linen" Case

CLARENCE GUY GORDON-HADDON, DUKE OF CLARENCE, KING GEORGE VI.

London court and society circles are considerably stirred by the case of Clarence Guy Gordon-Haddon, 43-year-old engineer, who was recently arrested and held without bail charged with "demanding money from King George with menaces and without probable cause." Gordon-Haddon claims he is a nephew of the king, asserting he is the illegitimate son of the Duke of Clarence, elder brother of King George, who died in 1892. Had the Duke lived he would have occupied the throne. In his letters to the king, Gordon-Haddon, who served with distinction in the World War, is said to have threatened that he would wash the dirty linen of the royal family in public if he were not given enough money to open a boarding house.

must be in charge of the drug store, which to be eligible for a liquor retail permit would have to be in business for at least two years.

Senator Haynes, who had voted to retain monopoly in the bill, opened a counter attack on the Whittemore amendment, by moving to strike out the word "drug" and make all stores eligible for retail package liquor sales permits.

"I do not see how a majority voting against a monopoly by the state," he declared, "can conscientiously vote for a monopoly by druggists."

Harrison of Cleveland, rallied to the defense of the Haynes proposal, explaining that it was his belief that temperance would be furthered by "making it as easy to buy a package of liquor as it is to buy a can of coffee."

"People are entitled to get liquor as easily and as cheaply as possible," said the Cleveland senator, "so that the purchase of liquor will have no more 'romance' value than the purchase of a can of coffee."

However, the Sheppard-Whittemore group, contending that druggists were the logical retailers of liquor because their pharmacist license "insures their responsibility," succeeded in defeating the Haynes amendment, 16 to 10.

The Senate then dissolved the committee of the whole and adjourned until 1:30 p. m. today. A group of anti-monopoly senators were to hold an informal meeting earlier to consolidate their ideas on the proper method of retail licensing.

Action in the House on a liquor bill continued to await a report from the lower house judiciary committee.

There was a disposition among some House and Senate leaders to recess tonight until next week.

So far the federal relief corporation has allotted only $144,860 or enough for the purchase of 95,000 dozen eggs. McNamara has made application for funds sufficient to cover the cost of the entire 190,000 dozen.

About 4,000 head of cattle will be purchased to cover the January distribution. The total cost of the 12,000 head has been estimated at $105,000, which does not include processing or distribution costs. In some counties, however, where proper refrigeration for the handling of fresh meat is not available, corn beef will be prepared and distributed.

CHAPTER FIFTY-SEVEN

Then things began to happen so fast — new things — that before Mom knew it everything was over. The first was the piece in the paper about Tom's job. It looked so natural to see his picture again with his football suit and the hat on, looking out at Mom so brave and kind of fierce-like. Uncle Louie saw it first and came from downtown with the news. He showed it to Tommy and then gave it to Mom. It said that Big Jeff Randolph had been appointed backfield coach at Thorndyke for the next year and his duties would begin in September. It said that Thorndyke was calling him back to help the head coach because the Pilgrim backfield had lacked punch since Tom had left and it was thought he could teach the young fellows how to do things as he had done. Uncle Louie stayed for supper and when Pop came in from the factory he hurried up to tell him but Pop went right on taking his shoes off; and when he took off his shirt and started to wash, he told Uncle Louie he was four hours late — that the news had been all over the factory all afternoon; and Uncle Louie said the paper had only been out two hours but Pop just looked at him and said:

"And what did I tell you about them not getting along without him?" Then Pop looked at Tom as if to say that he had a tough time with old codgers like Uncle Louie who didn't know anything about football. Then Pop said: "What's it pay?" And Tom said $3,000 a year; and Pop said, "and you don't have to play—just teach 'em?" and Uncle Louie stepped in and said, "Sure, can't you read?" but Pop paid no attention to him; he just said, "that's what I call a job."

That was what Mom called a job, too—particularly because he was going to be a coach and didn't have to play anymore; and it was sure funny to see the people around town, the ones who had razzed him and looked down on him and all—they were the very ones who came around shaking his hand and asking him about what kind of a team they were going to have; but Tommy didn't bother much with them. Mom noticed; and it did Mom's heart good to see the ones along the street trying to pretend that they had never said anything against him.

But most of all it did Mom's heart good because it proved that Tommy was great, after all; and now that it was all over she was proud of him for the sensible way he had acted when everybody was down on him. Even after the news was broken he didn't seem excited—he seemed to be studying more than ever about things; and when he got Mom alone one night and she thought he was going to talk about it, she could hardly believe her ears. He was going to stand up for Pete, naturally, and he was asking who was going to be Steve's bridesmaid.

Mom really didn't know; Cousin Emmy had done a lot of talking but Steve hadn't really asked her; but on account of Steve meeting Pete so soon after she came to town and spending most of her spare time with him, Mom didn't know whether she really had any close young girl friend. "I figured it might be something like that, Mom; suppose you sound her out as carefully as you can—and if you think she'd really like it, Dorothy will be home by that time."

"That's what I call a swell job," observed Pop to Tom as Uncle Louie looked on admiringly.

Mom thought it was sure grand for Tommy to take such an interest and she could see Pete appreciated it, too, and was almost as surprised as Mom—to say nothing of Steve; Mom could see she had been worrying a little, not wanting Cousin Emmy because a young bride wanted a young bridesmaid and not an old scrawny chatterbox who would like as not try to act like they did in the movies and act more important than the bride and ball things up generally. Steve was tickled pink and so Tommy said he'd ask Dot and she wrote right back and said she'd be greatly honored; and she said when he'd be home and just to let her know the date.

That was another thing that was bothering everybody—including the gossips along the street. Of course it had leaked out—trust Cousin Emmy for that, Mom thought—and the first time Mom went to the store after that, the three of them were right after her and although Mrs. Farrell didn't say anything Mom could see she had her ears open to catch anything that was said. So Mom said she didn't know the date yet because that depended on some on Dorothy.

"Dorothy who?" Mrs. Johnson said. So Mom said Dorothy Whittey and the three of them almost popped the eyes out of their head. "Is it gonna be a double wedding?" Mrs. Flannigan asked quickly; but Mom just smiled and said no, nothing like that but it was natural Dorothy should be the bridesmaid.

"Oh, she's going to stand up with them," Mrs. Johnson said. "I

Pellagra—A Deficiency Disease

A Lack of Essential Vitamins Causes This Affliction

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

IN OUR daily conversation the word "vitamin" is frequently used and most everyone is "vitamin conscious." Yet comparatively few have heard of a "vitamin deficiency" disease. There is an annoying and persistent skin affliction called "pellagra" which is now known as a vitamin deficiency disease. For many years little was known about the cause and cure of this disturbance. We are indebted to the United States public health service for much excellent research work. This bureau has confirmed the suspicion that pellagra is the result of some fault in the diet, with the lack of necessary vitamins in the food.

Not a "Poor Man's" Disease
Many physicians doubted the early reports of this extensive work. Since the disease usually involves the skin, they believed it could be traced to some disorder of that structure and not to the food. Today it is universally accepted as a disease due to the eating of improper food.

Many believe that pellagra is a poor man's disease. This is not true. It is not caused by lack of food, but by eating the wrong kind of food. It may occur in persons who avoid eating certain necessary foods, because of their efforts to reduce. It may be the result of some disorder where proper digestion of the necessary foods is disturbed.

There are other vitamin deficiency diseases. When the diet is lacking in vitamin C, "scurvy" occurs; if vitamin B is deficient, we have a disease called "beri-beri." Pellagra, however, is caused by a lack of vitamin G. Fortunately this particular vitamin is found in a variety of foods and you can be assured of receiving your required amount, if you partake of a well balanced diet.

Vary the Diet
Vitamin G is found in fresh lean meats, liver, milk, canned salmon and wheat germ. It is also found in eggs, dried beans, peas, canned spinach and canned string beans. Corn products, wheat and rice flour, oatmeal, salt beef, lard, carrots and rice contain small quantities of this valuable vitamin.

As I have said, pellagra need not be feared; the diet is lacking in well balanced. No vitamin deficiency disease can occur when the necessary measures are taken to insure a diet that includes meats, vegetables, fruits, wheat products and milk. Bear in mind that a diet low in proteins and one that contains few vegetables and fresh fruits is likely to lead to a vitamin deficiency disorder.

At one time pellagra was a common affliction among farmers in certain districts of the country. During the winter months they lived on a diet consisting essentially of molasses and corn bread. Fortunately the danger of such a diet is now well known and I am glad to say that pellagra is not as common as in former years.

MOVIES

AT THE GRAND

Two youthful players have been awarded contracts with First National as featured players on the strength of their work in "Wild Boys of the Road," now at the Grand Theatre.

They are Dorothy Coonan and Edwin Phillips. Miss Coonan played her first leading role in this picture, winning the role after 50 candidates were tested. She has heretofore been appearing in dance parts under Busby Berkeley's direction. She was in "Gold Diggers of 1933," "42nd Street" and "The Kid from Spain."

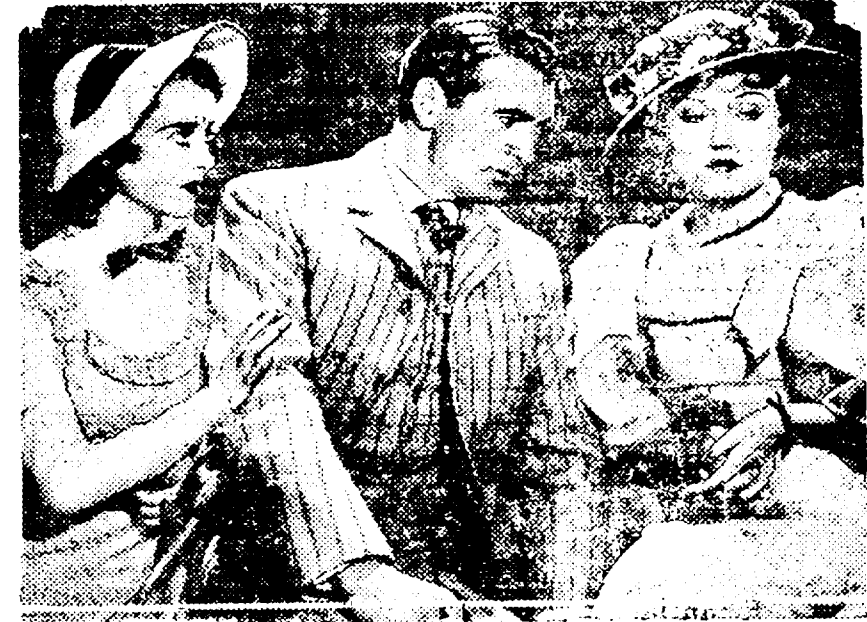

AT THE CLIFTONA

Gary Cooper sings, not one, but six songs in his latest starring Paramount picture, "One Sunday Afternoon," coming Friday and Saturday to the Cliftona Theatre. And he bids fair for the crooning throne.

As Bill Grimes, small town dentist of the early 1900's, Gary sings all the quaint airs so popular at the time, while separating his patients from their teeth.

Here is his repertoire: "Wait Until the Sun Shines, Nellie;" "Won't You Come Home, Bill Bailey;" "Goodbye, Little Girl, Goodbye;" "In the Good Old Summer Time;" "The Last Rose of Summer;" and "Ach du Lieber Augustin."

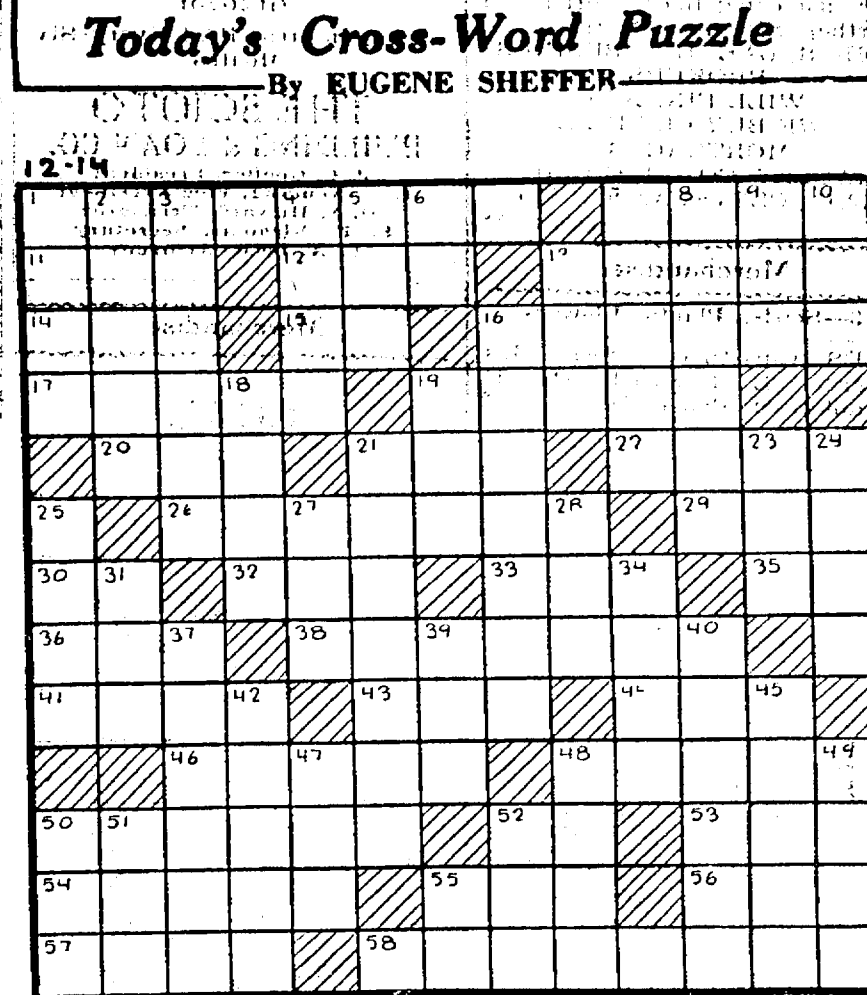

Some of the songs are sung in conjunction with Roscoe Karns to the accompaniment of banjos, calliopes and other musical instruments.

Frances Fuller, Gary Cooper and Fay Wray in a scene from "One Sunday Afternoon," at the Cliftona Theatre Friday and Saturday.

sleeve. Joe Tunulty, a fellow red head, secretary to Woodrow Wilson, and general counsel for the National Distillery Corporation, was for him. Joe had kept Doran on as Commissioner after March 4, and in the final showdown Tunulty got Doran the Distillers job.

The "unsung heroes" of the turf, the hard-riding working "exercise boys" want a new deal in their business. They are demanding an $1,800 a year minimum in the horse racing and breeding code pending before the AAA. At present their pay ranges from $30 to $50 a month and "keep". The Fellowship Forum, Ku Klux Klan weekly which at the height of its power in 1928 had a circulation of over 300,000, is dying. It is now being published monthly, has a circulation of only a few thousand.

The government union (AFL) NRA employees set in motion several weeks ago with a fanfare of publicity is a flop. At the second meeting, only 60 out of a total of 1600 employees, showed up. Author of the model anti-lynching bill which will be introduced at the coming session of Congress is a gentleman of distinguished Southern lineage—Professor James H. Chadbourn, of the University of North Carolina. He worked three years in preparing the measure, had the assistance of a number of outstanding southern lawyers and law school deans. According to Chadbourn, 3,753 persons have been lynched since 1889, and only 67 have been punished. General Hugh Johnson is not the author of the expression "crack down" in connection with NRA activities. A red-headed reporter put the words in his mouth when he inquired what was contemplated against Henry Ford.

MEANING OF KITCHEN TERMS

Meringue—whites of egg whipped to a standing froth with sugar are called meringue.

Augatin—means with browned crumbs, and is often used with scalloped dishes to indicate the use of crumbs for thickening. The term has come to mean "with cheese" since many crumbed dishes are served more tastily when cheese is added.

Caviar—is the salted roe of the sturgeon. These tiny fish eggs have distinctive flavor that makes them desirable for appetizers.

THE SEASONS BAKING

Holiday festivities are enhanced by attractions in the form of cookies or cakes made at home. Make some of these things for the family, or for the guests you plan to entertain.

2 eggs whites 2 C. confectioner's sugar 1/2 C. sugar 1 C. flour 1/2 C. baking powder 1 C. chopped nuts 1 C. coconut

Beat egg whites until stiff, add sugar slowly, then add the remaining ingredients. Drop by spoonfuls on greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 12 to 15 minutes.

Questions and Answers

What is a suggested guide for spending the food dollars?

One standard guide divides the food dollar into fifths. One-fifth for milk; one quart of milk for each child and a pint for each grown-up. The allowance for meat should not exceed that for milk, unless the proper amount of milk already has been bought. That accounts for another fifth.

The expenditure for vegetables and fruits should be as much as for meat and fish. One-sixth to one-half of the food money, depending on the income, should go for bread, cereals, macaroni and rice. The smaller the allowance for food, the more should be spent on the inexpensive cereals. Enough butter, margarine and other fats should be bought to supply between one-half and seven-eighths of a pound of fat a week for every member of the family over three years old.

Should the oven be hot or cold before the cake goes in? Some of my friends tell me a cold start is best for cakes.

When you are using an oven that has a thermostat on it, the best practice is to set the heat control at the proper temperature until the oven has preheated to that temperature and then have your cake in readiness to go into the oven at once. Starting from a cold oven increases the element of chance in baking—the factor that science has worked to eliminate by perfecting recipes and techniques.
